On the day of the burial

Before the funeral cortege arrives, we check the grave for presentation and safety.

The cemeteries supervisor or representative will be there to meet you and will stay throughout the burial service. Where families choose not to use a Funeral Director a member of the Bereavement Services team will agree arrangements with you.

When the hearse and cortege arrives, we check that the details on the coffin nameplate match up with the Registrars or Coroners certificate. By law the coffin must be correctly identified.

We will guide the funeral director and family to the graveside, making sure that the coffin is presented in the correct position.

Your chosen Minister or family representative will perform the committal ceremony at the graveside, the coffin will be lowered into the grave by the funeral directors staff.

Once the mourners have left, we will back-fill the grave and place any flowers on it.

Burial options
